RECEPTION BY BOARD OF LADY MANAGERS.

Mrs. Hodgkins invited the presidents of the classes of the University to a reception at her home last Thursday evening, to meet the other ladies of the Board of Lady Managers in the interest of the students' ball to be given on February 23, for the benefit of the University Hospital. A number of the faculty with their wives and several outsiders interested in the success of the ball were present.

Mrs. W. R. Vance presided over the frappe bowl and Mrs. Calp at the coffee urn. The early part of the evening was spent in social intercourse, the students getting acquainted with these generous women, who are working so hard and unselfishly for this noble object.

Professor Hodgkins then requested the attention of all and introduced Dean Phillips, of the Medical School, who stated the need of a hospital to enable the University to compete on equal terms with other universities, and explained the work that the board is doing.

Dean Vance was then called on and pledged the hearty co-operation and support of the Law students. Dean Wilbur, in the course of his remarks, wished to correct the report current, that the young ladies of the College did not care to go to the ball.

Mr. Mead Moore, president of the Association of Class Presidents, assured the ladies that the presidents of the various classes would vie with each other in sending the largest representation from their classes. Mr. R. I. Moore offered the columns of The HATCHET to give publicity to the ball among the students.

Mrs. Hodgkins announced that tickets would be on sale in a few days, and that Mrs. Vance, as treasurer, was ready to receive money.

COLUMBIAN DEBATING SOCIETY.

On last Friday the Columbian Debating Society discussed the proposition that the United States should establish a fiscal protectorate over those West Indian, Central and South American countries that manifest a chronic inability to meet their obligations.

The affirmative maintained that in order to consistently uphold the principles of the Monroe Doctrine, and because of our position as a world power, and, as such, to a certain degree our brother's keeper, we should come to the rescue of these countries to save them from themselves and more powerful creditors.

The negative claimed that it was no part of a wise policy to go about meddling in the affairs of other countries, that it would likely involve us in difficulties with European countries, and that we would be doing more good to correct the evils at home.

The judges decided that the affirmative had won and gave first and second honors to Mr. Badger and Mr. Stern respectively. Mr. Miller, as critic, in an excellent report gave some timely advice.

The semi-annual election will be held at the next meeting, February 2.

"SAY,

Old fellow, you are going to the Students' Ball at the New Willard on February 23, of course, aren't you?"

"Well, I don't know, hadn't thought about it."

"Why, certainly you must go, this is the only affair of any prominence in Washington where the students are the whole cheese."

"But I don't know any girls here, and would be a wall flower."

"Then this is the very thing you ought to go to. You know these girls' schools have beauties from all over the United States, and they have been shut up so long that when they get out,—well, they are very enthusiastic. Now, a large number is coming from Fairmont, Gunston, Chevy Chase College, Bristol, Hamilton, and from some of these other schools, and this is the opportunity of your life to make a killing."

"Do many of the students go to these annual balls?"

"Do they? Well, I should think. Last year there were about 800 there. All students of any social ability, who are not afraid to move about among ladies' trains, go. Then, too, think of the object of this ball, and loyalty to old G. W. You'll certainly regret it if you don't go."

"I'll just do that. I'll see my class president right away and get a ticket from him."

DANCE FOR TRACK TEAM.

On Tuesday, February 6, a benefit dance for the University track team will be given at Carroll Institute Hall and it is hoped that the students will turn out in force to lend their support to this school interest. The dance is necessitated by the fact that the Athletic Association finds the impoverished state of its exchequer an absolute bar to giving the Track and Field Department of Athletics any financial support. As a consequence the student body is the only resource left and it should not shirk the responsibility which devolves upon them of fostering the forward movement of this branch of athletics. Last year was the first year of an organized system of track athletics at the University, and despite the fact that conditions were most unpropitious, by virtue of the hard work of those interested, remarkable advancement was made. This year is the critical year, the time for the school to come forward and show that it can support a new interest, and the best method of doing this is to buy tickets. The dance will be well worth the $1.25 ticket required to admit two people, and in addition the purchaser will have the satisfaction of knowing that he is doing the right thing by a movement which will serve to add to the honor and prestige of his University. Tickets may be obtained from class presidents or at the offices in the different departments of the school.

ENOSINIAN DEBATING SOCIETY.

The Enosinian Debating Society held its regular meeting Friday evening, January 19, going through the regular order of business. Mr. Block delivered the extemporaneous speech on the "Ben Greet Players," and no better or more humorous talk has ever been given before the society. The subject for debate was: "Resolved, That the game of football as now conducted in our great universities is detrimental to those institutions."

Messrs. E. P. Gates and T. E. Marye spoke on the affirmative and Messrs. Van Vleck and Whitmore on the negative. The debate was spirited and delightfully full of personal abuse.

The debaters "roasted" each other to their heart's content while the poor old question was left to shift for itself.

After the debate the judges decided that the negative had been less bad and awarded them the victory by a vote of two to one.

The vote of the society was also in favor of the negative.

The team which is to debate Columbian Debating Society will be made up as follows: E. P. Gates, Karl M. Block and C. W. Whitmore with W. A. Van Vleck as alternate.

The society will furnish the Cincinnati team a second team on which to practice.

MEDICAL

The "Region of Romance" has been located at last. We quote Professor Ruffin as our authority for stating that it is in the pulmonary area, i. e., at the base of the heart. This matter being settled, the Ki Yis will now conduct all their romances along strictly scientific lines.

Be careful, boys; Cupid isn't a scientist.

GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY MEDICAL SOCIETY.

The George Washington University Medical Society, that new but most successful organization, held its third regular meeting last Saturday evening in Hall No. 2 in the Medical building. The meeting was well attended and proved interesting both from a scientific and social standpoint.

The paper of the evening, entitled, "The Eye: From a General Medical Point of View," was read by Dr. C. Norman Howard.

Dr. Thomas A. Claytor opened the discussion of the evening in his usual happy manner.

The usual social meeting followed the scientific session and there was no end to the good things that were served.

BALDWIN—1905.

Dr. Baldwin, of the class of 1905, has given up his position as House Surgeon at the Casualty Hospital to take up the practice of medicine in Danville, Illinois.

Our best wishes go with Dr. Baldwin and we predict a bright future for the genial gentleman.

THE PESSIMIST.

The following appeared in The Advance:

"The pessimist reminds me of appendicitis, because there used to be a time when neither existed. At least you can't find either word in any of the old dictionaries. Perhaps, as is claimed, the individual and the disease may have flourished under other names, but I believe they are both products of the 19th century.

"All of the pessimists ought to get in a little corner to themselves and say things to each other. There each with his little hammer could knock to his heart's content! All in a chorus they could knock the town they live in, the municipal administration, their representatives in Congress, the national government, the local baseball nine, the board of trade, the street commissioners, their neighbors, the Puritans who came over in the Mayflower and the inhabitants of Mars.

"They could tell each other how the country was going to the bad and the race of man degenerating. They could have a nice, dreary, hopeless time all to themselves.

"I have noticed that the pessimists are nearly always men—and bachelors."

SOPHOMORE MEDICAL

Mr. Sherwood went to Baltimore last Friday night, ostensibly to attend a ball given by the Phi Beta Phi, a girls' Fraternity there. The girls think well of our handsome Sherwood, all right.

Is Rozzelle sick? He has been seen several times at morning lectures recently. This must be looked into; we mustn't allow morning lectures to interfere with Rozzelle's nightly rest.

Mr. Bryan, did all those jokes come from Chase's?

Spring will soon be here! It may be due to the ozone in the atmosphere or perhaps to that mysterious chemical compound the influence of which draws forth the beautiful leaves from the bud, but whatever may be the cause, Littlefield, that hirsute appendage upon that upper lip of yours possesses an extraordinary degree of fineness.

One of the boys who seems to have had considerable reluctance about subscribing, sent his little boy to borrow a copy of THE HATCHET from a neighbor student. In his haste, the boy ran over a $4 stand of bees and in ten minutes looked like a case of urticaria. His cries reached his father, who ran to his assistance, and failing to notice a barbed wire fence, ran into it, breaking it down, cutting a handful of flesh from his anatomy and ruining a $5 pair of pants. The old cow took advantage of the gap in the fence and got into the cornfield and killed herself eating green corn. Hearing the racket, the wife ran, upset a four gallon churn of rich cream into a basket of kittens, drowning the whole flock. In her hurry she dropped a $25 set of false teeth. The baby, left alone, crawled through the spilled cream and into the parlor, ruining a $20 carpet. During the excitement the oldest daughter ran away with the hired man, the dog broke up eleven setting hens and the calves got out and chewed the tails off four fine shirts.

-THE BALL OF THE BACTERIA.

A gay Bacillus, to gain him glory,
Once gave a ball in a laboratory.
The fete took place on a cover glass,

Where vulgar germs could not harrass.

None but the cultured were invited,

(For microbe cliques are well united),

And he tightly closed the ball-room doors

To all the germs containing spores.

The Staphylococci first arrived—
To stand in groups they all contrived.

The Streptococci took great pains
To set themselves in graceful chains,

While somewhat late, and two by two,

The Diplococci came in view.

The Pneumococci, stern and haughty,

Declared the Gonococci naughty,

And would not care to stay at all
If they were present at the ball.
The ball began, the mirth ran high,
With not a thought of danger nigh.
Each germ enjoyed himself that night,

With never a fear of Phagocyte.
'Twas getting late (and some were loaded)

When a jar of Formaldehyde exploded,

And drenched the happy dancing mass

Who swarmed the fatal cover glass.

Not one survived, but perished all
At this Bacteriological Ball.

There's nothing slow about Bradley and McEnery, the captain and assistant manager respectively of this season's baseball team. They are the right men in the right places. When they ask you to purchase a season ticket, do so without any hesitation.

One day last week there was quite a disturbance in the chemistry class. Dr. Munroe endured it quite a while, but at length said: "Will the funny man please stand!" Slowly but surely there arose a form which, sad to relate, we recognized as that of one of the medical freshmen. But "Fearing" a reproach, I am reluctant to give his name.

FRESHMEN.

Well, boys, it's over—that long-expected histology exam. It was a cinch, was it not? "Well, I guess not!" seems to be the general reply.

The freshmen spent a very delightful evening together Tuesday in class room No. 2. Racking one's brains for histological knowledge seemed to be the favorite pastime.

Edmond Jones James, the new president of the University of Illinois, has determined upon an entirely new departure in American higher education. It is the intention of President James to make Illinois a "civil service university," and he will make the preparing of young men for federal and state positions the chief aim of the big institution of which he has assumed control.

A printing press has been established at Swarthmore, known as "The Swarthmore College Press." The regular college publications as well as the college pamphlets and books are being issued from this press.

NEEDHAM DEBATING SOCIETY.

Whether the extension of industrial co-operative associations would be an effective remedy for trusts, a correct solution of the problems concerning the equitable distribution of wealth and the means of eliminating all disputes between capital and labor, or whether they would prove an impractical theory, were the issues raised by the debaters at the last meeting of the Society. After an exhaustive recital of the failures and successes of these societies, supported by statistics on both sides of the question, the judges decided in favor of the negative, awarding first and second honors to Messrs. Lundy and Patterson respectively.

Not content with propounding arithmetical problems, Statistician Lundy introduced several figures of speech and cast caustic comments upon the value of certain information "dispensed from the laboratories of the Department of Commerce and Labor." His remarks added as much to the humor and zest of the debate as they did to the discomfiture of the gentlemen of the negative. Mr. Patterson, immediately following, defended the Department and condemned Mr. Lundy for offering as authority certain socialistic writers of which he (Mr. Patterson) had never heard. In analysis of the question and logical presentation of argument Messrs. Stein and Phillips proved especially proficient, the former contributing in large measure to the success of the negative.

In his criticism Mr. C. W. Owen remarked on the preparation given by the teams to the debate. At a period when examinations are taking up a large amount of our time, it is gratifying to find men exhibiting such interest in debating as to devote a few hours, at least, to the research necessary for the proper presentation of arguments. To the wise student debating is as much a part of his course at the University as any other one subject.

At the next meeting all the debaters will be members of the first year class. The work of these men in the past justifies our expectations of an interesting and lively debate on the question "Resolved, That the United States Government should pension all civil service employees who are seventy years old, or older, and who have been in the service twenty-five years."

UNIVERSITY CONGRESS.

There was a good attendance at the University Congress last Saturday evening. House Bill No. 39, providing for a more stable bank currency, introduced by Mr. Merritt, of Arkansas, was the subject of a lively and interesting debate. The affirmative maintained that the present system was too loose; that it left too much power in the hands of the National banks, and that the power of issuing currency should be left entirely to the Treasury of the United States. On the other hand the negative maintained that what we wanted was an elastic currency; that in order to keep up the supply and demand, especially in the more remote districts, it was absolutely necessary that the National banks should have the power to issue bank notes and that the present system seemed to be entirely satisfactory.

The bill, when put on its final passage, was carried by two-thirds majority.

Messrs. Able, of North Carolina, and Mr. Barrett, of the District of Columbia, very ably supported the affirmative, and Messrs. Merritt, of Arkansas, and Patterson, of Michigan, the negative. Under the three minute rule there were several interesting talks for and against, which showed a good general knowledge of this intricate subject.

On Saturday evening, January 27, 1906, House Bill No. 22 will be the subject for discussion. It reads as follows: "Resolved, That the public school system for colored children in the District of Columbia should be reorganized so as to abolish the higher grades and establish a system of rudimentary and industrial education."

Mr. Barrett, of the District of Columbia, and Mr. Hendersledt, of Tennessee, will support the affirmative and Mr. Merritt, of Arkansas, and Mr. Able, of North Carolina, the negative.

The University Congress offers excellent opportunities for those desiring to learn the art of public speaking, and a cordial invitation is extended to all students of the University.

JUNIOR DENTAL.

The sentiments of the Junior Class these days is decidedly anti-German and it is a "lead-pipe cinch" that if ever the National Democratic Convention again adopts the silver standard, the members of this class to a man will vote the Republican ticket. They are now looking for the scalp of the man who first produced German silver.

It is evident that Messrs. Wood and Lawrence have devoted considerable time to chemistry. The rest of the beardless class would like to have that formula for producing the beautiful hair-like adornment of the upper lip.

Wonder what is getting into the Junior Class? One was recently heard to remark that if he had an income of $1,200 per annum, he, too, would become a benedict. The atmosphere in the laboratory, such as escaping gas, etc., must be conducive to dreams of conjugal bliss. Nevertheless, they all appear to be present at the chemistry lectures in the mornings.

The first national Greek letter fraternity to be founded by colored students was organized January 3 at the Ohio State University, by eleven colored students. The fraternity is called the Pi Gamma Omicron. Charters have been arranged to be granted to the following sites: Chicago, Indiana, Denison, Fiske, Tennessee, Hampton College, Wilberforce and Virginia.

THURSDAY, JANUARY 25, 1906.

Do you love the University? Does it make your heart thrill to hear her yells in the air and see her colors flying? Do you fail to defend her name, if need be? Do you know the names of her prominent alumni and take a personal interest in them because they come from George Washington? Do you know the history of your University? Are you so familiar with her remarkable growth that you can cause one to see her great future? Do you know of any boy who ought to be here? Did you ever urge him to come here? Have you had a catalogue sent to him? Do you glory in the future of her teams? Do you do anything to help her teams? Do you go to her games and yell for victory? Do you belong to a debating society? Do you subscribe for the college paper? Do you participate in any University affair? And above all, is your criticism constructive, or do you delight in showing faults and errors, and do nothing to help correct them?

Now, if you cannot answer these questions in the affirmative, what are you here for? What influence will you ever exert, if you are so narrow and indifferent to the future of your University? What memories of your college days will you take pleasure in recalling when these days are past?

Can't you see that if you are lacking in that spirit called "College spirit" here, you will be equally lacking in that that distinguishes the broad-minded man from the contracted snob, public spirit, for "college spirit" has been aptly called "undergraduate public spirit?" Don't think that you can go along through university life in a narrow, seclusive path, but when you get out into real life, you will suddenly change and become a broad-minded, public-spirited man, a man of influence in your community. As the college man is, so, as a rule, will be the public man; it is safe to predict that the one will be a full-grown type of the other.

Genuine devotion and loyalty to home, fraternity, college, and state is always worth cultivating. It has a most valuable and refining objective influence, undefinable and imperceptible in its growth, yet as valuable as acquired knowledge.

Mr. Delos H. Smith has been appointed editor of the School of Architecture in the place of Mr. Atkinson, resigned. Mr. Smith was a most efficient class editor of the Mall last year, and will make known all matters of interest in his department.

We heartily commend to the support of every student the efforts of the track management to raise funds to equip the team. Let every one that can afford to buy a ticket to the dance mentioned on page one. We have just learned that our team has been placed against that of the University of Pennsylvania in the two mile relay in Baltimore, consequently everything must be done to help get the best team possible.

ALL-AMERICAN TEAMS.

Below is Walter Camp's All-American team followed by those of Casper Whitney, with a clipping from an exchange:

End—Shevlin, Yale.
Tackle—Lamson, Pennsylvania.
Guard—Tripp, Yale.
Center—Torrey, Pennsylvania.
Guard—Burr, Harvard.
Tackle—Squires, Harvard.
End—Glaze, Dartmouth.
Quarter—Eckersall, Chicago.
Half—Roome, Yale.
Half—Hubbard, Amherst.
Full—McCormick, Princeton.
Whitney's team is as follows:
Fullback—Eckersall, Chicago.
Halfback—Torrey, West Point.
Halfback—Hurley, Harvard.

Quarter—Hutchinson, Yale.

End—Shevlin, Yale.

End—Catlin, Chicago.

Tackle—Brill, Harvard.

Tackle—Lamson, Pennsylvania.

Guard—Tripp, Yale.

Guard—Burr, Harvard.

Center—Torrey, Pennsylvania.

Mr. Whitney ranks the leading football teams in the following order: Yale, Harvard, Pennsylvania, Chicago, Dartmouth, Princeton, West Point, Annapolis, Cornell and Lafayette. It is a significant fact that the names of Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota are missing from the list. In explaining his reasons for so doing he says:

"I wish also to add that I do not indorse the loose methods which obtain at Michigan, where the faculty representative, Pattengill, appears to be either stupid or in sympathy with the schemes employed to keep up Michigan's athletic strength.

"Wisconsin, because of the jelly-fish attitude of President Van Hise, is in the hands of a few athletic grafters and rotten (excuse the word) to the core. It should be cast out of Middle Western sport until purged. Minnesota is nearly as bad, commercialized to even a greater extent than Michigan, and Northwestern always has been bad since that arch hypocrite—Scott Clarke, I think was his name—set the pace.

"I do not approve of all Chicago's methods, but as compared with the others Chicago is as driven snow in the matter of athletic purity. I am convinced that if Stagg was entirely free of any higher influence there never would be a questionable man on the Chicago team."

Then Mr. Whitney takes a rap at the alumni, charging that they, in nine cases out of ten, are responsible for their colleges going astray. As a parting shot, he says: "With crooked alumni, flabby faculties, and coaches looking for reputation, the day for decent sport is indeed dark at Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota. You can't blame the coach—it's his business to win; he must win or lose his job.

"It is a pleasure to add at the bottom of this paragraph that Illinois is now an example of athletic cleanliness."

In selecting the teams, Mr. Whitney gives a list of players who forfeited all claim to consideration for all-American honors, for unsportsmanlike, professional and cruel conduct, and mentions Quill and Morse, of Yale; Weeks, of West Point; Thompson, of Cornell; Curtis, of Michigan; Cooney, of Princeton; Marshall, of Minnesota; and Stevenson, of Pennsylvania.

Comparing Eastern and Western football in general, he favors the East by a margin of a couple of touchdowns. He admits the actual play of Chicago was faster than that of Yale, the fastest of the Eastern teams, but insists that Western teams suffer in comparison with Eastern in the matter of interference, tackling and the running back of punts.

PROF. SCOTT MADE SOLICITOR.

James Brown Scott, of California, has been appointed solicitor of the State Department to succeed Judge Penfield, resigned.

Professor Scott is about thirty-eight years old, and is a native of California. He graduated from Harvard as a member of the class of 1890. He received the degree of bachelor of arts in 1891, and was traveling fellow on international law from 1891 to 1893. Then he went to Germany and took a degree at Heidelberg in 1894. Returning to California, he took up the practice of law, in which he engaged from 1894 until 1899, in which year he accepted the chair of international law at the University of Illinois. In fact, he organized this department, and was dean of that branch of the faculty. In 1903 he became professor of law at Columbia University, and this year was elected professor of equity in the George Washington University. He is the author of a treatise on international law, which is a standard work of instruction at several of the leading universities.

In the early days of the Spanish-American war, Professor Scott enlisted as a private in the California Volunteer Regiment, but was not required to leave this country. He is a man of private means, and it is understood accepts the position of solicitor of the State Department solely because of his deep interest in the large problems in international law which are now pending before the department.

DR. LINDSAY APPOINTED.

Dr. John H. Lindsay, of Fall River, Mass., has been appointed to a chair in the faculty of medicine of the George Washington University. He is a member of the Massachusetts Medical Society and of the American Medical Association.

Dr. Lindsay was born at Fall River in 1870, and was educated in the secondary schools of that city. He was graduated from Brown University in 1892, with the degree of Bachelor of Arts. In 1899 he completed the course of medicine at the University of Pennsylvania. Later he went to Berlin, Germany, where he finished his studies. He returned to America and was installed as the resident physician of the Germantown Hospital, Germantown, Pa., and subsequently entered upon the practice of medicine at Fall River. He is expected to take up his new duties immediately.

FIRST GAME OF FOOTBALL PLAYED IN UNITED STATES.

Just at this time when football is uppermost the following account of the first game of football might be interesting:

"The first football game played in the United States between colleges took place in 1876, between Harvard and Yale.

"In 1875 a game had been played between these rival teams, under a set of rules compiled for the occasion, partly Rugby and partly Association. Yale gave Harvard the right to carry the ball in the arms, and Harvard allowed Yale the privilege of beating the ball with the hands. The superiority of the rush was soon shown, Harvard scoring again and again.

"The game of 1876 was played strictly under Rugby rules. Captain Baker of the Yale team had a hard time selecting his team, but after much practice in light canvas suits with no padding, and with a round rubber ball, as they were unable to procure a Rugby outside of England, eleven men were chosen.

"This fact gave the Yale men less chance of victory. Harvard played all around them from the first, and but for a run of bad luck would easily have beaten them. Yale at the last forced the ball to Harvard's 25-yard line and Thompson kicked the ball between Harvard's goal posts, thus scoring a goal. Harvard made three touchdowns, but as a touchdown did not count without the goal kick Harvard failed to score, missing difficult kicks each time. This was the first of a series of annual contests between the two institutions, which has continued, with little interruption, to this day."—Ex.

WOMAN, WHO ART THOU?

I. A woman's love must be cherished.

II. But the man who gives his whole heart to a woman becomes her humble servant.

III. Woman loves man not for beauty, but for his brutishness.

IV. A woman paints, adorns her body, and practices arts merely to please man.

V. A woman's duty always lies through the Gates of Hell.

VI. When a true woman loves, duty to parents or God cannot restrain her.

VII. The love of woman is stronger than that of man because the heart overrules reason.

VIII. When a true woman enshrines the image of man within her heart, she can never have another hero.

IX. Once a woman loves, she loves forever.

X. Once a woman's mask is torn away, she can never replace it. Is woman an angel?—Ex.

THE CHORAL SOCIETY.

The University has entered into an interesting co-operative arrangement with the Choral Society with the hope that this may be the beginning of serious interest in the University in music as a fine art. The Society is to hold its rehearsals in the University Hall on Monday evenings at 8 o'clock, beginning January 22. Admission to the rehearsals will be free. Those desiring merely to listen will occupy the gallery, while the active members will have seats on the floor.

All students and others connected with the University who can sing, are invited to apply for active membership. The usual active membership dues of the Society are waived as to students, professors and officers of the University. Application can be made at any of the rehearsals.

The work undertaken this year is Mendelssohn's Oratorio of St. Paul and this will be given at the concert about the close of April. The musical director of the Society this season is Dr. Cornelius Rubner, head professor of music of Columbia University, New York, and dean of the Washington College of Music. Dr. Rubner conducts chorus in the Columbia University, New York, and his work is greatly admired and appreciated by the students there.

Dr. Edwin A. Hill, of the faculty of the Department of Arts and Sciences, and Mr. William Bruce King, president of the Alumni Association of the University, are members of the board of managers of the Choral Society. They will give special attention to all applications of students desiring to join the Society.

LAW.

Everything will be quiet and serious around the Law School this and next week—exams.

Everyone is delighted to know that Professor Scott, of Columbia University, New York, who was recently made a special solicitor in the State Department, has been made permanent professor of Equity and International Law. Professor Scott has already established, among the students, a remarkable reputation for ability.

The Juniors are looking forward with pleasure to their hours under Dean Vance during the next semester.

From the Freshmen:
Judge Allen holds that a bicycle is not a necessary article where it is to be used by a young lady for the purpose of carrying her to and from her schoolhouse. He bases his decision upon the ground that walking would do her good. Ye gods! Where is the chivalry of ye lawyers?

SOUVENIRS A SPECIALTY

HARVARD ABOLISHES FOOTBALL, UNLESS CHANGES ARE MADE.

At a meeting of the Board of Overseers held on January 10, after receiving the report of the Committee on Physical Training, Athletic Sports and Sanitary Condition of all Buildings, the board adopted the following vote:

"It was voted that the Committee on the Regulation of Athletic Sports be requested to report to this board what changes they propose in the game of football, and until said report has been acted upon and approved by the governing boards, to permit no further games of intercollegiate football.

"Your committee considers the game of football as at present played essentially bad in every respect.

"The method of formation absolutely encourages trickery and foul play. It is very difficult to see all that is done, even by the most careful and sharpest-eyed umpire, but the results are seen in many serious and even fatal accidents. It is nearly impossible to line up twenty-two powerful and aggressive young men opposite each other and not have some one lose his self-control and do what is wrong. Cases often occur when foul play is deliberately made in order to gain some advantage at a critical moment, the player doing it running the risk of detection to gain his point. Besides this, some coaches and older men persist in teaching the players to most effectively 'put an opponent out,' as it is called, in many adroit and indistinguishable ways.

"So long as the larger universities play the game in this way, it is bound to have a bad effect on the school boys. Trickiness and foul play are absolutely encouraged in many places. The result is bad for the morals as well as for the body.

"Is it not time for the larger and more important universities, considering not alone their own condition, but the bad effects outside, to stop it?

"Your committee is thoroughly convinced that in the interest of clean, fair-minded sport, a complete change is necessary—either to adopt a different kind of football game or else to so change the existing one as to make it radically different. If changes are to be made, your committee believes that no man now a member of the so-called Intercollegiate Rules Committee should have a hand in it, believing that they are so far committed to the present system that they could not agree to such changes as are absolutely necessary to produce a decent, clean, pleasurable contest, instead of the present apology for a rough-and-tumble fight.

"A new committee could, it is believed, formulate rules that, while simple, would cause an absolutely different results. In this connection it is necessary to point out that proper umpires are as necessary as good rules—men who, unlike many of those used as such in late years, are ready and anxious to instantly punish any infraction of the rules. Such men can be found, but few so far have shown the proper spirit and few inflexibility.

"Football is a fine game when properly played, but the present method is thoroughly bad and ought to be stopped absolutely and finally.

"Any university taking this action will later be considered as a benefactor by many players and by all lovers of healthful, clean sport and fair play. There is no desire to criticize any especial set of players; all seem more or less to blame; it is the system that is wrong.

"Your committee does not feel called on nor is it competent to say exactly what change, either in the game or rules, should be made, but it does feel that a change is imperative.

"Your committee recommends action by the Overseers."

COMMITTEE ON FOOTBALL RULES.

It has been learned from an authoritative source that it is practically settled that there will be no change in the intercollegiate football rules, providing that all alterations in the code must be accepted by unanimous consent. This practically is a declaration that the delegates have determined to stand or fall by the project they advance, and unless some new compromise measure can be devised, there will be practically no change in the rules code so far as open play goes.

It is a statement that Walter Camp is determined not to abandon the one-man veto power, in which position Camp is dictator over the committee as a whole. It is a well-known fact that the general opinion at Yale—in spite of what Camp may say to the contrary, that there should not be an alteration in the present style of the game—and Harvard's threat to abandon the game does not at all brighten them.

It is certain that the Rules Committee will never consent to the adoption of Yale's suggestion of a ten-yard gain with no other change to make it practical, consequently a deadlock is almost in evidence. Pennsylvania, Annapolis and Princeton are definitely committed to the project of weakening the defense. It is thought that Harvard's representative leans this way also, and the rest are not disposed to stand out against it.

The condition that then confronts the committee is to stand for no change at all or accept Yale's compromise, and if this means no change, accept Harvard's withdrawal from the game.

On the question of amalgamation of the old committee with the new, it is understood that Yale stands again opposed to it, and not alone.

The Harvard threat to appoint a committee of their own was carried out and their report published a day or so ago. The essential things in the recommendations are the creation of a neutral space between the two teams, the allowing of forward passes, the opening and weakening of the defense, and the abolishing of the punt out.

President Schurman, of Cornell, has come out strongly for football, declaring it to be the best outdoor sport for the American youth. He also argues that athletics make it possible to govern hundreds of students in a single university without the aid of a "jury, court or policeman."—Ex.
